

GODERICH, C. W. JAN. 8, 1863.

THE "GLOBE" AND THE NEGROES

Every reader of Canadian newspapers is aware that the Globe has given the whole weight of its influence to the side of the Federal Government in the present War. It has a perfect right to do so, of course, even though it should differ in opinion from seven-eighths of the people of the Province. It has a right to raise its voice on behalf of the be-chained black man, and it cannot be blamed for upholding Mr. Lincoln in his Proclamation if it thinks he is thereby dealing a death blow to the "peculiar institution." But it somewhat startles us when it makes the announcement that it is neither more nor less than a vulgar prejudice which hinders Canada and the Northern States from receiving the Negro on an equal footing with the white race. Prejudice is a singular thing and cannot always be accounted for even by those who are swayed by it to the greatest extent; and yet while it might be deemed out of place to argue as to the natural inequality of the Negro with more favored races, we think that if the race can be shown to occupy such a high standard, in America, it is more than it has ever done upon its native soil. The Negro of modern and ancient Slavery has not attained an intellectual and moral status higher than he at present occupies during a long series of centuries. Although frequently brought into contact with the Egyptians, the Phœnicians, and afterwards the Romans, the tribes of Negroes which from time immemorial have supplied hewers of wood and drawers of water for other countries derived little or no benefit from such intercourse. While the people of Greece, Magna Græciæ, Asia Minor, &c., rose in a surprisingly short period of time to the highest pinnacle of refinement and civilization, the tribes of Africa continued, as they still continue, immersed in gross barbarism. This fact has been repeatedly alluded to by the best writers who have ever turned their attention to the subject. But no physical or intellectual inferiority in a man or a nation of men can justify Slavery. Far be it from us to inculcate a doctrine so repugnant to the feelings of every Christian heart.

The Globe argues that the almost universal prejudice against the Negro in the North is because he bears about with him the ensignia of an enslaved race. If this position is correct we have only to say that it is directly contrary to the instincts of human nature. Who ever heard before of a man being hated, and shunned, and sneered at, by intelligent, refined, and Christian people, merely because he had been cruelly treated by his fellow men? Horace Greeley has never carried the argument to such a pitch as that, and the invariable rule with the most ultra abolitionists has been to prove, or endeavor to prove, that it is the whites who have suffered the greatest degradation through slavery and its influences. The Horace Greeleys, and Beechers, and Stowes, of

We take from it the following paragraph:

"The doctrine which the Globe preaches, and endeavors to cram down the throats of its readers, is abhorrent to every white man or woman; and he is no lover of his race who hesitates to say so. The very thought of a general intermarriage of whites and blacks is repulsive. Where is the white man or woman in the city who would wish to see his or her daughter married to a black man? These blatant philanthropists who preach up negro equality, we venture to say, would scorn to see the doctrine carried into practice in their own families. Let them give a practical evidence of the sincerity of their belief, and we shall be more inclined to regard them as honest than we now do. 'Till then we must be excused from subscribing to their view as to the intermarriage of the races.'"

THE PROCLAMATION.

In another column will be found the famous and long looked for Proclamation of Emancipation. Having once announced his intention, as he says himself, the President "could not withhold it if he would, and he would not if he could."—This is the most important document issued by the head of any Government, perhaps, within the past fifty years. For weal or for woe, its influence will, doubtless, be felt on the American continent for many years, perhaps ages.

The President admits that his act arises not from any mere desire to shake off the shackles of slavery, but as a stern military necessity, which is tantamount to the humiliating admission that without the help of the slaves the South cannot be conquered. The idea that bona fide emancipation, on the abstract principle of right and justice, is not what is contended for, is strengthened by the fact that the blacks in loyal States are to remain in slavery. In fact, it is now certain that this is not a war against slavery as such. The President has intimated as much, and has been backed up by Gen. Banks, who is extremely outspoken on the subject. Beside the evident inexpediency of his emancipating measure, some of the principal papers of the North condemn it as entirely unconstitutional—and more despotic in its assumption than any act of any crowned head since the time of Charles I. If this is the proper time to issue a proclamation of that kind, it will certainly be the first time that the problem of freeing an immense body of slaves has been solved in the midst of fire and blood. If we mistake not, the wretched Negro is now about to suffer as he has never suffered before, and any humane mind must receive with caution a policy which if it induces the blacks to rise in insurrection will consign them to death, or in case of success, the white population, innocent women and tender children, to the untold horrors of San Domingo.

LECTURE LAST NIGHT.—One of the best lectures delivered in Goderich for a long time, came off last evening in the Wesleyan Church of this place, in connection with the Wesleyan Literary Association. The Lecturer, Rev. Mr. McCuppin, (Primitive Methodist) of Goderich township, took for his subject, The Irish Revival and its Results, and having been an eyewitness and partaker in the scenes he wished to describe, brought before his audience in a series of vivid, thrilling, and highly and cheered at, by intelligent, sensible, and Christian people, merely because he had been cruelly treated by his fellow men? Horace Greeley has never carried the argument to such a pitch as that, and the invariable rule with the most ultra abolitionists has been to prove, or endeavor to prove, that it is the whites who have suffered the greatest degradation through slavery and its influences. The Horace Greeleys, and Beechers, and Stowes, of the North, have for many years contended that their views regarding slavery and the Negroes were correct. Assuming that such is the case, and that Northern Abolitionism is perfectly sound: how strange that these teachers and their followers are not ready to take the black to their hearths and homes as a man and a brother! We have stated over and over again during the past three months that the North does not really love the Negro, and we have not yet seen a tittle of evidence to convince us of the contrary. The Globe freely admits the truthfulness of the proposition when it says: "The white children of the South are brought up with the black. Negro nurses suckle the infants, negro children play with white, and the strongest ties of friendship are formed between the two races, to say nothing of other unions of a still more intimate kind. If there were something in the color of the black man utterly repugnant to the white, no such state of things could possibly exist. It is in the Northern States and in Canada that we witness the strongest prejudice against the negro race." That is something new to many of the readers of the Globe, but it is correct. What, then, about the unmitigated cruelty? How can "strong ties of friendship" spring up between the races if the Negro is so fearfully down-trodden?

One thing is certain, if sudden emancipation takes place, a social evil will be let loose which will punish the North most fearfully for its complicity in the perpetuation of slavery, while the Negro will suffer more seriously than he has yet done. The ignorant and foolish white girl may elope with the Negro, or openly marry him, but no law of selection can ever justify a mingling of the races. The turgid, torrid blood of the Negro can never exercise an elevating influence upon the white race; the very contrary must be the case. It is all very well as a matter of sentiment to preach about the natural equality of all men, but what refined and intelligent family of whites throughout the world would be willing to give with joy the most beautiful of the group to the embraces of a negro. Would Greeley, or Beecher, or any person in the Globe office, hail with a hearty good-will the accession of a negro brother-in-law? We speak not of the union of a white man and black woman—such has seldom if ever been known! If the blacks are to be freed, we sincerely hope they will be kept on the plantations at "reasonable wages." The Northern States are welcome to them, but as for Canada, she has just as many of the "intelligent Contrabands" within her borders at present as is good for her.

Since the above was set up the Leader has arrived, in which we find an article on the same subject and in the same strain lectures delivered in Goderich for a long time, came off last evening in the Wesleyan Church of this place, in connection with the Wesleyan Literary Association. The Lecturer, Rev. Mr. McCoppin, (Primitive Methodist) of Goderich township, took for his subject, The Irish Revival and its Results, and having been an eye-witness and partaker in the scenes he wished to describe, brought before his audience in a series of vivid, thrilling, and highly illustrated sketches, which did credit not only to the subject but to the speaker. Our limited space forbids even an attempt at reporting the address, and to be fully appreciated it would require to be reproduced in its entirety. Mr. C., it is easy to perceive, leaving a certain richness of accent out of the question, is a thorough-going, live Irishman, deeply in love with his country. His language shows much cultivation, and his earnest, hearty eloquence, is embellished with a wealth of illustration we have seldom seen equaled. We hope he will visit Goderich again for a like purpose, and that next time the weather may be more propitious than last night.

LUCKNOW.

PRESENTATION TO SERGEANT COX, OF THE LUCKNOW RIFLES.

Color Sergeant Cox, of "the Lucknow Rifles," having determined upon a trip to California, was met by the Company in the Lucknow Hall, on the evening of the 31st ult. The Company on being informed of the intended departure of their Color Sergeant, unanimously expressed deep feelings of regret in being thus deprived of the valuable services of Mr. Cox, to whose exertion and attention the Company is indebted for their organization; as Sergeant Cox is going to start on Monday and will be deprived from obtaining his salary from the Government, the Secretary and Treasurer passed through the Company, and soon returned with the handsome sum of $21, which was presented to the Sergeant with the following address from Captain McDonald.

To Sergeant Palmer Cox.

"I have much pleasure in handing you this gift from the members of the Lucknow Rifle Company, as a mark of our appreciation of your services as our drill instructor, and our esteem for you as a gentleman. We regret that circumstances induced you to leave us, for besides the debt of gratitude we feel and owe to you for your valuable services, I assure you that we and all of us regard you with sincere feelings of esteem and friendship, and now as you are about to depart from us, believe me our warmest wishes for your prosperity and welfare accompany you."

Sergeant Cox replied in a few very neat and appropriate remarks, saying that he would always with unfeigned pleasure reflect upon the time he had spent in trying to make men and soldiers of the Lucknow Rifles, and if he ever returned, his first act in Canada would be to again enroll his name among them; he said as he was going where, perhaps, he would not have an opportunity of hearing the toast, he was about to propose, as heartily responded to as it should be, he felt much pleasure in having the honor to propose the health of Her Gracious Majesty the Queen, which was followed by three hearty cheers, and a song, "God Save the Queen," by Mr. Walter Armstrong. The health of Capt. McDonald was then proposed and neatly responded to, after which the Company dispersed, with mingled feelings of pleasure and regret.

☞ Sir Robert Peel has been unanimously elected a member of the principal Conservative Club in Dublin. The Times Dublin correspondence believes that this is an honor which no Liberal Chief Secretary ever before received in Ireland.
